

I am Connor Degan, Hopkinton resident for almost 18 years, and I am excited to be running for the Housing Authority here in Hopkinton. I am a recent graduate of Roger Williams University, where I majored in political science and minored in psychology. I have done in-depth research on affordable housing legislation providing case analysis of communities both receptive and opposed to affordable housing. I am committed to making a difference in town government and am currently working in the Town Clerk's office absorbing and learning all that I can from our own Town Clerk, Geri Holland. I have held positions working as part of the political process and find taking part in local government so much more rewarding. I am eager to serve as a voice of the people and to work to make adequate, affordable housing available to members of our community.

I am also an advocate of teaching our next generation of voters about government and the electoral process. I have taken part in programs to visit schools and encourage students to become educated voters and explain that their vote really does count. I hope that you will consider me for the Housing Authority position. I would appreciate your support at the polls on Monday night and I do believe your vote matters.
